age: 78

residence: Allentown, Pennsylvania

education: High School Diploma

occupation: Retired

marital status: Married

I like my days perfectly planned out with no surprises.

Being married to her high school sweetheart Jack since 1965, she enjoys drinking coffee and petting her cat Whiskers. Having raised two kids and put them through college, she is a natural caregiver and likes to keep the house tidy while also cooking and baking.

Getting hurt keeps is what keeps you alive. Just keep on moving forward.

Always outside, can't afford to just settle down, because stay moving is what keeps him going. Starts on the bigger tasks and works his way down, makes the day feel easier to tackle the hardest stuff right of the bat. Wife takes their kid to school and she works from home, so he is on his own for most of the day. In summary, he's always on a machine, always in the sun, always has somewhere else to be.

Criteria For Success:

If he knows for certain everything is accounted for, he's content. He can be restless if he feels his job isn't completed.

Needs

- Wants something that ensures he's completed his tasks
- Intuitiveness

Values

- Attention to detail
- Technology that doesn't feel too intrusive to his work

Wants

- Would prefer that the app not bombard him with messages, but deliver them timely
- Would like for the times for notifications to not be the same for every day so he can adjust them based on the amount of work he must do before taking care of smaller plants on that day

Fears

- Letting a crop die due to lack of care
- Being overloaded with work so much so that he can't organize education: Bachelors in Art History occupation: Part time museum worker and aspiring artist marital status: single

I think everything is artistic if you look at it the right way.

She spends most of her time making art or spending time in art museums. Her apartment is very well decorated and has a lot of plants, which are her favorite form of decorating, but she never remembers to take care of them so they always die.
